Why MasterLink?

Real experience. Real skills.

There's a lot to learn in plumbing, gasfitting and drainlaying. What better way than to do it on the job?

Once you've been accepted as a Masterlink apprentice, we place you with a host business and you get real life, hands-on training.

Got your back.

We set you up with a mentor who helps support you to complete your qualifications on time and with good marks.

Start earning, straight away.

As soon as you start your apprenticeship, you bring in a regular wage, so you can get started in life. We pay you while you learn, even when you are on block course.

Sorted for life.

Get yourself a trade and you're sorted for life. Advancements in technology are dramatically changing the professions of the future.

But hands-on labourers like plumbers, gasfitters, and drainlayers will always be needed. It's a future proof, stable profession.

What makes a great Masterlink apprentice?

- Evidence of previous work showing the practical experience you already have.
- NCEA Level 1, 2 or 3 as a minimum achievement.
- A good attitude and practical abilities. Some firms aren't so fussed about academic achievements as long as you can show you're a good worker.
- Good references for clues to your attitude and behaviour.
- Proof of your commitment. For example, getting experience through Gateway, Vocational Pathways or a Pre-trade programme.
- Minimum restricted drivers licence.
Driven manual-shift vehicles.

We need you now!

Master Plumbers wants to see our trades thrive, now and into the future. That's why we established Masterlink; to ensure a flow of good quality apprentices getting qualified and entering the industry.

New Zealand needs more plumbers! With construction booming, there's a shortage of skilled tradespeople. We recruit, employ and manage high-calibre apprentices in plumbing, gasfitting and drainlaying. We place our apprentices with 'host' businesses for on-the-job training.
